The best man was Private Charles Hoffman, Jr., USMC of Sarasota, who is stationed at Parris Island.

South Bay Girl Wins Naval Award

A ceremony in the Charleston Navy Yard on June 20 spotlighted one of our Everglades girls, Miss Catherine Betty Rawle, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rawle, who were among the early pioneers of South Bay. The ceremony was the first All-woman Award to be held by the Beneficial Suggestion Office. Six women received cash awards for their ideas which they submitted to speed the attack against Japan.

The highest award ever to be paid to a woman employee at the navy yard was presented to Betty Rawle of 119-D Ben Tillman House, North Charleston, formerly of South Bay, Florida. She was awarded $125.00 for her suggestion for balancing accounts for retirement and tax deductions through her system. Her office was able to finish its annual report 10 days ahead of schedule or the year of 1944.

Following the old method the previous year the office had been late in turning in its report. The suggestion also saved considerable time throughout the year. Betty came to South Bay from Montana when a very small child. She was prominent in church and civic work here, a graduate of the Pahokee high school with the class of 1939. Winning awards is no novelty to Betty, who won many awards in her 4-H Club work, culminating in the Chicago trip to the National 4-H Club Congress last 1938 on her canning and food conservation records won in county and state contests.

She attended the Florida State College for Women at Tallahassee for three years and would have graduated in 1942 had she not felt she could do more toward the war effort by interrupting her college course to work in the Charleston Navy Yard which she entered in 1942. Her father, W. H. Rawle, who is a navy veteran of World War I, was one of the men in the navy yard three years before when the shipbuilding program became acute. He is now employed in the electric shop in the yard.

Her sister, Miss Louise May Rawle, was also employed in the supply division until her recent marriage to John H. Morrell USNR, stationed in Washington, D. C. Miss Rawle plans to return to college to get her degree in the need for her services in the war effort has passed.

ming pool, which could be operated as a year round project. He picked out the northwest portion of the park as the ideal location for such a pool, land on which the cottages now stand. He advocated two playground layouts, one for the small juniors and the other for intermediate juniors and the adults. He intimated that if funds were available that the Belle Glade park could be made one of the most outstanding ones in South Florida.

You know I like to go to bed early at night but I wish some one would give me a remedy of how I can get to sleep when a blaring radio is going full blast or stentorian voices keep up a rapid fire conversation, interspersed with loud buffoons of laughter, pierce the air waves.

We sort of wonder as a car and trailer passes us by these days, how and where do the operators get the gasoline? I made a visit to my home town of St. Cloud over the week end and was very much surprised to find the state parking reservation practically filled with two dozen or more trailer outfits. This is more than the camp has had at any time in the past four years period.

Does not look now as if we would lack water in the Glades for the fall and winter crops. The headwater regions from which most of the water supply comes down the Kissimmee valley to the big lake, are filled to capacity and overflowing, and with additional general and local rains to come, the big lake ought to get back to its former high.

levels, thus assuring sufficient water for irrigation purposes and the maintenance of proper water tables.

Capt. "Hamp" Holloway just can't keep away from the dredging business, and keeps on improving and increasing his equipment for the furtherance of future contract work. Capt. Holloway's equipment has moved, dredged and carried more rock out of the lake region and canals than the mind of man can fathom. He is sure one of the pioneer operators of this portion of the state, a great assistant in the Glades development. When he goes to heaven he will likely demand that a dragline or dredge go with him, so that he can dig up the streets of gold of the eternal city. His outfits are well known all over the South Atlantic Gulf of Mississippi valley, where they have done large government contract operations.

Up in the north and especially during his war period, oldsters who otherwise would have been relegated to the sidelines in employment, got a break and opportunity to continue in the bread-winning class.

I was in South Beach, Ind., where some 22 firms were operating on war contracts, and where some 50,000 or more employees found lucrative employment. I was just taking a vacation rest, when I picked up the evening paper and saw that the Studabaker Aviation plant, which made engines for the B-17 bombers, wanted 7,000 employees at once, regardless of age or experience.

I am not certain whether it was my patriotism or the desire to make some ready money that drew me down there to visit. At least I went, and for many months I had enjoyable employment under the most favorable conditions and pay. The government, labor unions and the company were not niggardly about pay, or demanding on the amount of production of work turned out by each employee, as there was a uniform schedule to meet, and it was met each day, to turn out 94 of the big engines which cost the government around $16,800.00.

This plant was one which was a mile square, built of brick, and not a window in it, lighted as of day, and pre-cooled to comfort. Within its portals, conducted strictly under army regulations, some 16,000 people of all ages, types and color, male and female, found employment six days a week, and to their credit each one was enthused and inducted with a loyalty seldom seen in a mass production plant, and never a serious strike of any kind has occurred since it opened its doors four years ago.

This plant cost the government $125,000.00 to build and equip and is considered one of the best war plants under government supervision. To have gone through and inspected each automatic precision machine, and follow each operation in the building of a bomber engine, would have required weeks. It was a maze of ingenious constructed equipment of the finest type, all worked on a mass production or line system; each department coordinating with the other, to shove the work along to completion.

It is claimed that the Studabakers have the largest and most intricate piece of machinery in the mammoth Cleveland boring machine to be found anywhere. It cost around $4,000.00 to build and install, and weighs thousands of tons. It is electrically operated by a crew of six or seven persons, and can make 94 different drilling operations at one time, or can be used as independent units. It took workmen three months on the complicated electrical installations. Its building and production is almost beyond the conception of man's mind.

Every portion an engine is precision produced, interchangeable, and every operation is government inspected and passed along by a tight schedule of inspection, until the last of the 7,800 parts have passed into the completed engine. Engines are built, tested in the test cells for eight hours, under all flying conditions, then torn down and inspected for defects or worn parts and then rebuilt and again tested, and if right boxed, or signment marked and shipped to the war destination in flat cars.

My experience as a worker, and I was most happy in doing it, was a real experience that I would not have missed and regretted when the enticement on production ended the work for me. But I am also glad that I can see the back of my old profession of pounding the newspaper typewriter down here in the Glades. After all, I feel that I like the South and its expansion opportunities best.

Inspectors Cause Rush To Post Office

Several representatives of the Internal Revenue Department spent some time in Glades town the past week end, not hunting out speakeasies or distilleries, but taking note of such cars which did not display that obnoxious little $5 stamp, which to be sure last that this type of tax will be imposed upon motorists by the Federal government, and let's hope that information may be correct, for everyone, mostly, deemed it as an unnecessary imposition.

Very few cars parked around Belle Glade streets Friday displayed this special government numerous notifications received by owners to go over to Postmaster Fernal's stamp window and deposit their necessary $5 bucks for one of the stamps, which must be displayed prominently on your car. George did quite a flourishing business to increase the income of the office.

We are told this year, sure is to be the last that this type of tax will be imposed upon motorists by the Federal government, and let's hope that information may be correct, for everyone, mostly, deemed it as an unnecessary imposition.

Wanted Beans to Pick

Three monkeys sat on a coconut tree. Discussing things as they were said to be. Said one to the others: "Now listen you two, There's a certain rumor that I've heard. That man descended from our noble race, The very idea is a disgrace.

"No monkey ever deserted his wife, Starved her babies or ruined her life. And you've never known a mother, To leave her babies with others to bunk, Or pass them on from one to another, Till they scarcely know which one is their mother.

"And another thing that you'll never see: A monkey build a fence around a coconut tree. And let the coconut go to waste, Forbidding all other monkeys to taste. Why if I put a fence around a coconut tree, Starvation would force you to steal from me.

"And another thing a monkey won't do, Is to go out at night and get on a stew, Or use a gun or club or knife, To take some other monkey's life. Yes, man descended, the greedy cuss, But, brother, he didn't learn from us."

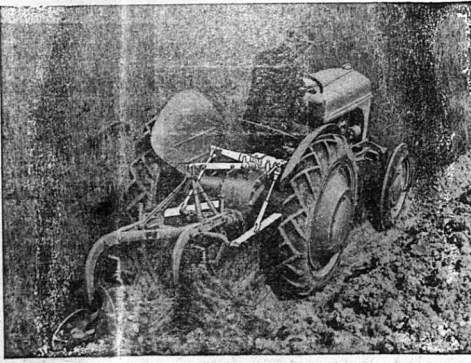

Then he tossed a coconut into the Marriage office opposite the Belle Glade Bank.
